Maxis is a studio responsible for developing The Sims 4 Mobile. They are famous for such productions as SimCity and Spore. Players once again have the opportunity to manage the life of virtual family. The Sims 4 Mobile for Android and iOS is yet another edition of series that is popular all over the world. Just like in previous cases, this simulator of life was created by American studio called Maxis. The first game of The Sims series had its premiere in 2000.

The man behind the idea was Will Wright, the funder of Maxis and the creator of SimCity and some other games with Sim in the title that had its best successes in the 90s. The Sims managed to quickly beat other games from the developer's catalogue, becoming the phenomenon and one of the most popular brands in the electronic entertainment field. Thanks to its lifespan and popularity, year after year there has been new parts and dozens of smaller and bigger additions. Sims 4 Mobile, similarly to previous games, doesn't introduce any revolutionary changes in the gameplay model, focusing on a slow evolution of already checked solutions.

In the game, we still manage the family of virtual Sims. We have to take care of all needs, both spiritual and material ones. What's more, we have to take care of roof over their heads by designing house and a garden. What's the story so far? Once again the game starts from creating our sims. However, this time we have much more modifies and options to choose from. Visual editor allows us to more accurately specify the look of our figure.

What's more, we can comprehensively influence the qualities such as silhouette, height, weight, the shape of the face, and many other things. The personality of our character has got a huge meaning too.

The players can choose several out of dozen available personality traits as well as long-term goals of the sim. They also have an impact on the later behaviour of our sim and they are the element of an improved AI system that was introduced to the game.

Thanks to that, sims act more naturally and they react on occurred situations in much more diverse way. They are influenced not only by the level of currently satisfied needs or social interactions, but also by the gear they use or clothes they wear. Experiencing specific emotions can unlock, among other things, new dialogue options. Why is it a good idea to use application provided by our website?
